

The Preparatory Group of CCSA rough discussed the Memorandum of Understanding (draft) and tentatively advanced the following revision idea:

Memorandum of Understanding(draft)

On the 7th of Nov. 2002 the leaders of the Preparatory Group of CCSA, TTC, ARIB and TTA agreed on common interested problems:

1. For promoting prosperity and evolution in the information and telecommunication field, telecommunication standardization organizations of China, Japan and Korea exchange information of telecommunication standardization work periodically and aperiodically. It is highly advantageous to impulse telecommunication standardization work of each country's.
2. On the basis of communion, communicate and dialogue we can sustain and cooperate each other in common interested and agreed technical field and study item.
3. Cooperation forms are various, such as exchanging information of each country's standardization evolution periodically and aperiodically, drafting technical documents in common interested standardization problems and recommending specification documents to international standardization organization.
4. To ensure efficient implementation of normal information exchange, in the exploring first phase we may adopt periodic meeting form, for instance, the information exchange meeting take place once every six months. The meeting will be hosted by each organization in turn, and a contact person will be appointed for the meeting in each organization.
5. The name of meeting entity should be called "China-Japan-Korea information and telecommunication standardization exchange meeting"
