1. Copyrights to TTC Deliverables

- (1) The Telecommunication Technology Committee (hereinafter referred to as "TTC") shall not be subject to any restrictions on standards, specifications and/or translations thereof (hereinafter collectively referred to as "TTC Deliverables") that exploit part or all of the materials including, but not limited to, documents, figures, and/or tables submitted by its members (the aforementioned materials hereinafter being collectively referred to as "said materials"; however, software shall not be included in said materials unless a member who submits software specifically expresses his/her desire that the submitted software be included), to produce TTC Deliverables, as well as its own exploitation of said TTC Deliverables and license to exploit TTC Deliverables to a third party. The exploitation herein refers to reproduction, translation, adaptation, public transmission, and any other acts subject to copyright restrictions as stipulated in the Japanese Copyright Law.
- (2) Members of TTC shall agree that the authorship of TTC Deliverables shall be attributed to TTC. Members of TTC retain the copyrights of their respective said materials exploited in TTC Deliverables, but they shall not assert any rights (including moral rights of authors) to TTC itself nor a third party who has been licensed to exploit TTC Deliverables by TTC.
- (3) Those members who submitted said materials shall be deemed to have consented to the provisions (1) and (2) above, upon their submission of said materials to TTC.
- (4) If the deliverables of the third party are cited in said materials, the Members of TTC who submit the material shall specify the source. In addition, when the Members of TTC cite the deliverables of a third party in a TTC Deliverables, the Members of TTC shall specify the source.
- (5) In the case where the deliverables of a third party are used in in said materials (except citation), the Members of TTC who submit said materials shall obtain the license from the third party so that the conditions of (1) and (2) are satisfied for said materials.

2. Exploitation of TTC Deliverables

- (1) Those who wish to exploit TTC Deliverables shall obtain permission from TTC in advance.

However, any exploiting acts such as citation, which do not require permission from copyright holder by the Japanese Copyright Law, shall not be included in the above obligation.

- (2) Those who wish to exploit TTC Deliverables shall submit an application to the President of TTC in advance, specifically identifying the following items, to request permission to exploit said TTC Deliverables.

<1> Name

<2> Address

<3> TTC Deliverables he/she wishes to exploit

<4> Purpose of exploitation

<5> How TTC Deliverables are to be exploited

- (3) Upon receiving the application mentioned in the preceding paragraph, the President of TTC shall immediately examine the application and reply with the result.

- (4) When granting a permission to exploit TTC Deliverables, the President of TTC shall impose the following conditions:

<1> It shall always be clearly indicated that TTC retains the copyrights of TTC Deliverables.

<2> TTC shall not assume any responsibility for any claim made by a third party about copyrights and/or other intellectual property rights against the exploitation of TTC Deliverables.

- (5) If it is determined that the exploitation of TTC Deliverables will contribute to the deployment of TTC standards and will benefit the public interest, the President of TTC may grant a permission to exploit TTC Deliverables free of charge.
